

House of Shine impacts lives by writing curriculum and delivering programs that help students discover who they are so they can solve problems that matter and be leaders in their community. In a world focused on covering up imperfections, our programming focuses on exposing participants to their unique SHINE (Strengths, Hobbies, Interests & Irritants, Needs, and Experiences). This simple shift in philosophy makes all the difference, because when students understand their strengths, they become more confident, more likely to engage with the world around them, and better able to make informed decisions that lead to more fulfilling lives.

House of Shine offers interactive, hands-on programming that can be facilitated in large groups, through clubs and organizations, after school, or in formal classroom settings. Program offerings include the following:

ISHINE ASSEMBLY - This program incorporates members of a school's community, students, teachers, and coaches, to share their own life story and communicate that we were all created with a unique set of talents and gifts and have a responsibility to share them with others.

Please see www.houseofshine.com/ishine to see the impact this assembly had on a North Texas high school.

YELLOW ENVELOPE PROJECT - An initiative through which students mail letters of gratitude in yellow envelopes, recognizing the SHINE of another school community member.

WHAT'S YOUR SHINE CURRICULUM - One module of curriculum for students in Kindergarten through twelfth grade, intended to build awareness of self that runs parallel to content knowledge. This curriculum can easily be taught in leadership classes or study hall.

SHINE 360 - Tools available to reinforce the SHINE message throughout a school environment, including pencils and posters.
