TASC ENDORSED PROGRAMS: RESOURCES FROM TEXAS ADVOCACY PROJECT

Hello Educators!

Texas Advocacy Project is a nonprofit organization that provides free legal and social services to survivors of domestic and dating violence, sexual assault, stalking, child abuse, and trafficking. As you may know, TAP also has an education team. We've met our maximum of the number of teen dating violence prevention trainings we're able to provide at this time, but we're always available to teens seeking legal and social services for power-based abuse. Check out TAP's website for more info: <https://www.texasadvocacyproject.org/who-we-are>
Here are some resources that may be helpful as you make decisions for your state project.

Texas Advocacy Project's Online, On-Demand Training (for teens!)

Local Resources

Many local family violence programs or domestic violence shelters also have Community Educators who can assist, so that may be a great option to explore. These are wonderful organizations with a wealth of knowledge so I highly recommend reaching out and figuring out ways you may be able to partner.

Statewide & National Resources
